

I`M MISSING YOU

( D – major )

1. I never believed in fate, when I saw you in the park.

Your smile was attracting, it seemed to win.

I had never seen you before, you rose up from the dark,
and crumbling immediately went under my skin.

2. We met each day, it had been a wonderful time,
and free from sorrow each day we enjoyed.

We never had discussions about what`s yours and what is mine,
and struggles we were able to avoid.

Interpart: Too short the luck and happiness, I think, fate is not fair.

It was clear, that nothing we could do.

The time you can`t turn back, no more hours we will share,
but still I long for you. I`m missing you.

3. A team of good physicians, they all gave their best,
in vain, and you thought, I could disappear.

But darling I had chased from North to South, from East to west,
if there had been a chance to survive, my dear.

4. The hours quickly run away, and there was no time to reflect,
and terrible the fact nothing we could do.

You adhered with all your might not willing to accept.
Moments of pleasure were less than a few.

End: Well, no one can turn time around, you never will come back.
A part of me had gone, I`m feeling blue.
May be, once we embrace again in spheres, where there is no lack.
But still I long for you, I`m missing you.
