

THE BELLY DOESN'T RULE YOUR LIFE

(C-major)

1) You`re esteeming just those circles
and you try to live in that way,
forming presence with more comfort
And some things get more convenient,
to be not very lucky, satisfied,
The belly doesn`t rule your life.

being spoiled by wealth and rings,
get accustomed to those things,
and amusement for your dreams.
but I notice, that you seem
I see you frown.

2) And you care for etiquette now,
liking trips to foreign countries,
You associate at best parties,
You are dining with exuberance
And even, if you`re surrounded
The belly doesn`t rule your life.

smart and fashioned by boutique,
furniture looks like antique.
you`ve got fancy, taste for pearls.
presenting a man of the world.
by success, you`ll miss applause.

3) You`re the chief of the game, just update,
Showing coolness, but no feelings,
You enjoy envious looks hoping
You are proud of those, who`re fading
But you cannot find your peace,
The belly doesn`t rule your life.

and all days in front of stage.
and you`ll never turn to rage.
they might raise their eyes to you.
in their glory, like you do.
`cause something`s missing in your house.

4) Where have they been, your lovely good friends,
No one of your snob-community,
You don`t see, you just build up facades,
You`re surrounded by those masquerades,
If `it gets hard, they will avoid you,
The belly doesn`t rule their life.

when the illness came to you?
no compassion, piercing too!
pretending a world of truth.
they`ll reject you, smiling smooth.
they just care for their own profit.

5) Show philanthropy, sensibility,
Don`t take delight in those dishonest games,
Don`t be distorted by the power,
Then you`ll get real and sincere esteem,
and true friendship will be carried
if the belly rules your life.

beaming warmth and harmony.
take understanding, sympathy.
act and live, just like you are.
real affection won`t be far,
towards you, if you thaw yourself,