

THE HOPE MAY NOT FADE AWAY

(D –major)

Prelude: D – A – D – A

1. We`re not happy with all the wealth, which we possess, adoring might and mammon, which seem to bless.
So many questions, which can give no rest,
By sorrows, fears for future we`re oppressed.
The call for freedom drowned by cry of war,
to many doubtful aims, we are longing for.

2. And everywhere we can notice no respect.
To sow our wild oats nothing seems suspect:
we act just for own profit, for own gains.
We often use all occasions, we obtain.
But never we`re satisfied, if others pay.
Let`s hope, one day the egoism fades away.

3. The likeness, which human beings wear,
and as a special point they like to declare,
as GOD`s image is self-deception, pure,
is never suited for the world to cure.
Though we look at dust-heaps, hear cries for needs,
we are exploiting men and earth, which slowly bleeds.

Interpart: A - G - D - D - A - h - e7 - A4 A - e - G - D - D - e - D - A C A h - D - A - e A - e - D h - A - A4 A

4. For the misery, which we produce each day, once each of us, my friend, we have to pay.
Not GOD is failing, we ourselves produce,
all the chaos around us, that`s the truth.
If we follow GOD`S words every day,
then hope for change may never fade away.
Then hope for change may never fade away.

Text and music by Chotu 10 / 2008