

WHITSUNTIDE

(C – major)

- 1. And they all were waiting at one place,
when a mighty wind then began to raise.
And a bluster filled gradually the air,
like tongues the Holy Ghost was spread there,
To all persons concerned He felt share,
granted and sent by God his message to declare.
- 2. And they preached to all people standing around in all strange languages, able to astound.
All those from foreign countries, who could hear
God`s words in their parlances with their own ears.
Somehow confused they listened until dawn,
but some denied this, reacting just with scorn,
- 3. Speaking: "They are drunken, tipsy by sweet wine.
"But Petrus said: "This message is divine!"
Appealing to Joel, where God proclaimed:
The day will come, when trust in God is framed
By the Holy Ghost, spread on all servants, maids, for all those seeking my mercy waits.
- 4. Thus you can trust on the everlasting force,
that surmounts hindrances, leads to the source,
The fluid, that everywhere can be found,
that penetrates all things, works all around.
So open heart and ear for God`s request.
With the glance of divine love you will be caressed.
