

TO SATISFY HIS HUNGER

Prelude: C - F - C - F - G - F - C - C

1. Yet another one here on earth
not planned, an unwanted birth.
No "welcome!" graced the front door,
a person that people ignore.
A child who longs for love and for care.
But no one's there to satisfy his hunger.

2. With eight siblings in one room,
He grew up without help or support.
One could foresee his social doom.
A life without recognition and reward,
His father an alcoholic, his mother depressed,
and their constant quarrel meant there was no rest.

Bridge:

Instead of human warmth, love and affection
he only reaped contempt and rejection.
He bit his way through without assistance
and developed self-assertion and resistance.
He became more and more cold-hearted,
his criminal career started to satisfy his hunger.

3. He began to steal, big money in mind,
leaving doubts and remorse behind.
He didn't notice his decline and fall
by all the devils, which he had called.
And he learned to survive, to cheat and to lie.
You never saw him cry despite his hunger.

4. Gradually the prison became his home,
but even there he was isolated and alone.
His probation only lasted a few days.
In the world of crime he left his trace.
His life never offered him to advance,
he never had a real chance to satisfy his hunger.

One day they found him hanged in his cell.
But there was no one at his grave to say farewell.
